CONTENTS

CLUB, DECEMBER: VOLUME 4, ISSUE 11

Publisher's statement:

Worldwide sales exceed 2,000,000 copies

THEIR ACTIVITIES READ like a cross between Baretta and vintage Hank Janson. Their official title is The New York City Police Department Street Crime Unit and their daily job is to offer themselves as potential victims to the growing numbers of criminals whose specialty is vicious street crime. Joe Cook examines their modus operandi in On The Street.

Do you occasionally play a little poker, maybe sit around with the boys on Friday evenings, sweating it out when the pot goes over a hundred bucks? Even if you don't, you'll be fascinated to read Marvin Bevans' account of how 27-year-old Bobby Baldwin won this year's World Series of Poker – and nearly half a million dollars. It's called Playing Poker to Win.

Our exclusive interview with Beatle George Harrison is as revealing as it is rare. Don't miss it. M. George Haddad asked the questions. In Gold Rush – 78 Style, Ben Venista examines a West Coast fitness phenomenon. Our December issue bulges bounteously with further fun, fact, and fiction, and with some of the most curvaceous cuties ever to grace our pages. David Jones

Slipping up where you shouldn't? Getting behind the times? If so, start a subscription to Club!

What other magazine would interview Richard Burton, Gore Vidal, Telly Savalas, Mae West?

What other men's magazine would cover schools for prostitutes, sexual deviation in the Soviet Union, erotic room service, animal antics, the ecstasy of pain, submission and domination, erotic tat-toeing and pubic hair styling?

What other men's magazine would print the revelations of a hooker, forbidden gallery art, the diary of a pimp and the memoirs of a professional gigolo?

What other men's magazine would also include Colin Wilson, Ken Russell, Erich von Daniken, John Sladek, Molly Parkin, George MacBeth, Fiona Richmond, plus the world's greatest erotic photographers? The answer is Club!

"Strolling along the beach on a cold winter's morning is not exactly my idea of having a good time. One of the musts in my life is that I must always be warm. My own adage, but one I adhere to stringently." "I grew up in the wilds of New England, and by the time I was 17 I had had just about enough of freezing cold winters. So, to quote good old Horace Greely, I went west, and have stayed there ever since." "Give me the beach on a sunny California morning and I'm in my glory, the sun caressing my skin and warming me up totally. Put a man on the beach with me and I'll burn up. Let him touch me and the excitement passes through my body like a shock. I'm very easily excited, and the combination of sun, sand, and sex makes me one very happy woman." ☒

Looking at life realistically, I see it as an experiment in amusement. Even the trials and tribulations. Why make it into something heavy? It's kind of like living at Coney Island with things going up and things going down. They're never constant, and why should they be? How terribly boring life would be if they were. I surround myself with people and things that give me pleasure, make me laugh, make me happy. There are just too many hassles in life that one can't do anything about, so when one can look at things positively, why not?"

"Sex should be fun, too. Making it into something laborious becomes ever so tedious and takes all the joy out of it. If I'm with a man who takes it all too seriously I'll just walk out. I want to be tickled – both literally and figuratively. Sometimes I can come just from laughing. I know that sounds silly, but I love being this way. Why not take out a water gun and spray a man with champagne, why not blow bubbles and have them pop ever so softly on his cock, why not? Isn't life just a bowl of cherries anyway?"

K. C. a bit tomboyish, isn't it! I think so too, but every time I think of it I want to sing the song about Casey Jones, the conductor. "Yes, I know that the spelling is different, but they thought that he was great, and I think, in my own way, that I'm kind of great myself." "Actually, I prefer using my initials to being called by my real name. No I won't tell you what it is. That way I can be as masculine or as feminine as I want. I'm sure you'll agree that K.C. has a feeling of both sexes about it." "When I'm with a man, either one of us can take the aggressive role. See, sometimes I like to start the ball rolling, holding on to my man, as he grows harder." "Then, I get him to lie down while I take his cock into my mouth, sucking on it until it is completely erect. And it's still up to me to do what I want." "If I want him to suck me, I put my pussy over his mouth and have him tongue me as I bring him to orgasm. And, for some reason that I can't explain, when I come off it's always fantastic." "Yet, I can still play the passive, feminine role when I wish, letting my man make all the moves. I often feel very helpless and vulnerable when I do it this way, but variety is the spice of life!"
